“Prime Time” Luncheon

Dear Friends,

It is wonderful to think about the variety of lives that are touched by the ministry of Christ Presbyterian Church. Whether we are celebrating the baptism of a young child, providing food for a low income family, praying for a member in need of healing, or engaged in a whole host of other compassionate ministry endeavors, we are showing our desire to be faithful followers of Jesus Christ. This past year we have continued to provide a broad range of ministries to respond to the diverse needs and desires of our congregation and community.

I am pleased that we have continued to encourage hands-on involvement in serving others. Our mission team has effectively provided a good array of service opportunities. In April, I appreciated being able to serve with thirteen members in providing flood relief in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. We joined with Sylvania United Church of Christ, St. Michael's in the Hills, Masjid Islamic Center and the Islamic Center of Greater Toledo in building a Habitat for Humanity home for Mohamud Saleban and Fardus Ubahle and their six children in Oregon, Ohio. Members used their gardening skills to help produce hundreds of pounds of vegetables from our community garden behind Hansen Hall for homeless shelters. In addition, we provided blankets, quilts, clothing, food, and Christmas gifts to low-income families. We also were fortunate to have one of our small groups provide a warm meal for people in need in our neighborhood. They are serving meals to over thirty people on the last Monday of each month in Hansen Hall.

A major effort was made this year to bring members together in neighborhood groups for study and fellowship. During the season of Lent, over one hundred men and women gathered in members homes to discuss a sermon series that Amy and I offered on spiritual disciplines. In the fall, a smaller group of members discussed the topic, “Living a Faithfilled Life at CPC.” We continued to encourage faith development by offering Bible studies, a summer time film series, and ongoing small groups. A significant new program has been “Prime Time” which has been an enjoyable and informative monthly luncheon series for vibrant older adults.

A dedicated group of members and staff have enabled us to enrich the lives of children and youth. Our children are inspired through our Sunday morning Godly Play program; participate in well-organized special events; share in mission projects; and this year our Vacation Bible School returned and was well attended. Our youth continue to gather for study on Sunday mornings and fellowship on Sunday evenings. Ski trips, swimming events, and a trip through a corn maze have been some of this year's activities. They also showed their concern for others through participating in a 40 hour famine and a mission trip to Walpole Island, Canada.

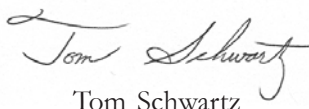

After a great amount of discussion, the CPC Session decided in August that we should encourage all our members to faithfully meet five expectations: 1. Believe in Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior, and graciously invite and welcome others into our community of faith; 2. Attend worship every Sunday that you are in town; 3. Participate in at least five hours of service each year with a focus on caring for the poor, sick and/or disadvantaged; 4. Participate in one small group or Bible study each year; and 5. Give generously in the mission and ministry of Christ Presbyterian Church by giving at least 5% of your household income and work toward contributing 10% or more. The session was aware that members may need to adjust the expectations to match their life circumstances. I agree with session that these expectations should help members deepen their spiritual lives. Our church community will also be enriched by all of us working together.

I am very appreciative of the dedicated staff at Christ Presbyterian Church. This has been a significant year of staff transitions. Mary Bielen, our Director of Children and Family Ministry, left to take a new position in New Jersey. Amy Rudiger, our Associate Pastor for the past five years, left in September for the Cincinnati area where her new husband, Neil Duiker, is beginning a law practice. I am grateful that Mary was instrumental in developing our Godly Play program and Amy brought her enthusiasm, insights, and talent to a variety of ministries in our church. I miss both of them. However, we are fortunate that a church elder, Monica Mancy, is now bringing her experience and joy for children to our church as the new Director of Children and Family Ministry. Plans are underway to bring a new associate pastor to our staff by next summer. In the interim, our Youth Ministry Leadership Team is providing a variety of events for our youth and we are fortunate that The Rev. Carol Duffy is serving as an interim associate pastor.

This past year has been filled with meaningful moments, joy and sadness, demanding challenges and some great opportunities for our church. I valued being able to officiate at the wedding of Amy and Neal. Amy served as a wonderful colleague and so many of you benefitted from her presence. This past year we have also had to cope with the unexpected deaths of some remarkable and gifted individuals. Their memorial services were a tribute to just how much they shaped the lives of their families and our community. The death of my mother-in-law, Marie Nutting, brought sadness, but I am also grateful for how her Christian faith was a blessing to so many people. All of our transitions have been demanding in terms of time and energy, but it is exciting to think about the new small groups, members, mission projects, education and music events, that have enriched our faith community this year. It is good to be a part of this church community and I am enthusiastic about the mission that is before us.

Blessings,

Tom Schwartz

Christian Education

Children's Ministry

Mary Bielen served as the Director of Children and Family for the first seven months of the year and in August took a new position in New Jersey. Church Elder, Monica Mancy moved to the position of Interim Director of Children and Family Ministries. Kim Long took over Monica's previous position of Team Leader of Children and Family Ministries.

Our Godly Play program, including a take-home scripture, was continued every Sunday morning during the school year, with Pray & Play as the program during the summer. Throughout the year, children began by worshipping at either the 9:30 or 11:00 service, and then went to class after 'Passing the Peace.' A children's offering was collected each week, which went for our mission projects—which were expanded to include Hannah's socks, Mitten Mountain, and sending items to our troops overseas.

Over 60 children enjoyed VBS during the summer, using the Group program Crocodile Dock. Teens assisted our team of teachers, song leaders, and set builders.

The Children's Choir, led by Amy Findley, sang several times during worship, and helped celebrate Christmas Eve with a play during the 5:00 service. Our team coordinated families preparing a meal in conjunction with the scheduled choir rehearsals on Sunday evenings.

Our ministry also hosted several family events: Valentine Bake-a-thon, Easter Eggstravaganza, All-Church picnic games and activities, a movie night, Fall Harvest, and Advent Creations.

Youth Ministry

In 2009, our youth program underwent many changes, but remained strong and continued to grow. Before our first event in January, which was a lock-in at the church, we participated in The Bash, sponsored by McCord Rd. Christian Church with over 100 area youth attending.

In order to accommodate the number of youth desiring to ski this year we took two groups skiing to Boyne Mountain and we were grateful to stay in the Angst cabin.

In early spring, the 30-hour Famine became the 40-hour Famine! We partnered with Washington Church and sponsored two bands on Friday evening in Hansen Hall, with roughly 50 people in attendance. On Saturday, we served the community by working at Wildwood Metropark.

Our bi-annual confirmation class graduated in late spring, and each member was presented with a Bible.

For their annual workcamp, the youth traveled to Walpole Island, Ontario, and spent the week after July 4th on an Indian reservation. Sixteen youth and four adult leaders repaired homes, joined the praise team, and made new friends.

Later in the summer we made a trip to the Findley's cottage, a day at Cedar Point, and a trip to Q-Zar. We made improvements to our youth room, including a 52" TV and Xbox, two café tables, and beautiful tv stand/cabinet built by Rob Weaver.

The new fall season brought many changes, starting with the loss of Rev. Amy, who married Neal Duiker, and answered a call to a church in Mason, Ohio. A parents' meeting was held to encourage more participation of junior-highers. We decided to partner with Washington Church for one event and one Youth Night meeting every month. Other adult leaders volunteered their leadership to maintain the program—including Cary Loos, Mandie Petlow, Robin Ratzenberger, Beth Riggle, Howard Wharram, and Bob Lydy.

Other events this fall have included the Whitehouse Corn Maze and a self-defense lock-in.

All these events emphasize the youth group's fellowship and camaraderie, which is also evident in their participation in weekly events. Each Sunday morning following the opening part of the contemporary service, the youth engage in Bible Study. And an average of 12 youth come every Sunday evening for Youth Night—participating in discussion, open sharing, prayer, and games.

Adult Education

Our mission was to bring adults together in community for participation in a variety of educational programs.

The Sunday morning adult Bible class averaged 15-18 members and studied OT People, New Creation in Christ, the Life & Ministry of Christ, and assorted books on a summer reading list.

The Disciple Class series continued with 2 year-long studies, and 2 8-week studies.

The Prime Time Luncheon Programs offered a lunch and programs or speakers of interest the first Wednesday of each month. The average attendance was 30-40 people.

The Summer Faith and Film Series met for 4 weeks during the summer and averaged 25-30.

Building and Grounds

The following is a brief summary of some of the major items accomplished during 2009:

- Hansen Hall electrical and lighting upgrades were completed.
- Hansen Hall kitchen upgrades were made working with the kitchen remodel team.
- Two cleanup days were held, spring and fall.
- The engineering firm for ground water intrusion had contractors come in and estimate repairs. These estimates still need to be evaluated and acted on.
- The youth room radiator was modified to accommodate a locking cabinet.
- New towel, soap and hand sanitizer dispensers were installed.
- We worked with worship on sanctuary sound system upgrades.
- A new handicap parking spot was created just outside the Hansen Hall entrance.
- Repairs were made to some of the lights in the back parking lot.

Some of the other areas that need attention or that were estimated and are in process include:

- A meeting will be scheduled with the above mentioned engineering firm and the estimates will be discussed and brought to the team for evaluation and decisions.
- We have approved the estimate to repair the ceiling in rooms 8/10 and are scheduling with the contractor.
- We have also approved repairs to the exterior doors and re-glazing of the narthex windows. This will go to session for approval.
- In the spring we will re-visit the occasional but ever-persistent roof leak in the narthex.
- Further repairs to exterior lighting will be considered.

Respectfully submitted,
Randy Rubley, Team Leader

Personnel

We experienced a number of changes in staff during the past year.

The position of the part-time Communication Assistant was discussed and continued for 2009.

Monica Mancy was hired as interim Director of Children and Family Ministry, and after reviewing other resumes and interviewing another candidate, was hired to the permanent position beginning January 1, 2010. Rev. Carol Duffy was approved by session as interim Associate Pastor for 6 months effective December 1.

4 Rev. Tom Schwartz will continue to evaluate the support Staff and other employees in the future and discuss results with our team.

Reviews will be conducted during the first 6 weeks of 2010 due to his increased workload during the 10-week vacancy in the Associate position.

Increases for all staff and employees was discussed and requested. Personnel will review Tom's goals for 2010 in early January.

The initiated 'check-in-policy' to meet with our professional staff was considered rewarding and will be continued. The composition of the team was evaluated and maintained along with the rotation idea of members.

Dick Griffith, Team Leader

Special Events

Our team, which plans and hosts many events throughout the year, began with a celebration honoring our newly ordained and installed officers, followed by refreshments for their annual retreat. We served a variety of hot soups for our CPC Annual Meeting.

Special fellowship was enjoyed at our Easter Brunch, and again on Mother's Day, with pies and ice cream to honor fathers in June. Two Saturdays in spring and fall brought people to help with our church clean ups.

In July we served lunch following VBS week, with a special farewell to Mary Bielen. We held another farewell reception for Rev. Amy Rudiger, and later gave a wedding reception for her and her husband, Neal Duiker.

We kicked off our education programs with a potluck lunch on Celebration Sunday, and provided refreshments for World Communion and Stewardship Sundays. We welcomed our new interim associate, Rev. Carol Duffy, and ended our year with a Christmas coffee hour.

In addition to our CPC events, we also hosted a dinner for the Presbytery in May, and Synod Assembly in August.

Diane Nelson, and Dave Hendrix, Co-Leaders

Worship and Music

The Worship, Music and the Arts Team met monthly to discuss worship services and plan special musical events. We continue to offer three services from September through June and then switch to one contemporary service and one traditional service during the summer months.

The Ron Prebe Jazz Quartet and Lori Lefevre Johnson provided a benefit concert on Saturday, November 14, to build up a fund for special musical presentations. Those in attendance were impressed with the high quality of the music and hoped that we would offer another jazz concert in the future. This benefit was made possible from the generous donation of a church member who paid the musicians' fees.

The sound system in the Sanctuary was improved with the purchase of additional speakers and choir microphones. The goal was to make the music of the choir easier to hear throughout the Sanctuary.

Our Contemporary Worship Team has been meeting every week to make sure that the sermons, music, and video presentations are coordinated.

Memorial

Our committee operates under the direction of Session, and is responsible for evaluating and approving requests for memorial gifts. These requests are received from families of the deceased or through committees of the church. The committee meets monthly only as business necessitates.

The balance in the memorial fund as of December 31, 2009 was $24,834.31.

Approved disbursements for 2009 include:

Architectural Arts (plaques)	$ 284.00
Sound Equipment—Desk (Sanctuary)	$ 1,572.50
Paraments (Sanctuary)	$ 800.00
Total	$ 2,656.50

Christian Involvement & Action Team

(Formerly known as the Equipping Ministry Team)

Our team is charged with encouraging members of CPC to become active in serving the church, community, and world using their interests, gifts and experience.

We developed the 'Yes, I Can' booklet, a directory of opportunities for service. It explains requirements for each service team and contact person, and was distributed to participants of the neighborhood groups in October.

A member of our team attended each New Members class, later interviewed each person to help determine where they can best use their gifts, and made follow-up calls to each new member.

A classified ads/help wanted bulletin board was established as a sign-up opportunity for short term projects to encourage all members to get involved.

Respectfully submitted,
Barbara Ball and Doug Aplin, Co-Leaders

New Member Outreach

Our Outreach team tries to contact those who have been a recent visitor to CPC. Our main hurdle is the frequent lack of an address or phone number. We staff a welcome table which provides a mug, a friendly face, and offers to help answer any questions.

We continue to encourage members to give us the names of anyone interested in coming to worship, or other events at CPC.

Jack Rogers, Team Leader

Finance

Giving to support Christ Church for 2009 totaled $718,033; expenses totaled $689,812 resulting in income exceeding expenses of $28,221. I want to thank everyone for their financial support of Christ Church during this past year. The major contributor to income exceeding expenses was resignations during the year of two members of our church staff, Associate Pastor Amy Rudigar and Christian Education leader Mary Bielan. In addition, spending to support "Hands on Mission" projects was less than giving for them. Funds given specifically for "Hands on Mission" are restricted specifically for those projects and unspent funds are carried forward each year.

The specific amount "saved" by the two resignations was $25,550 and the amount of "Hands on Mission" giving being carried forward from 2009 is $8,710. Reconciling these amounts results in spending in all other areas of church operations exceeding income by $6,032. Each committee is to be commended for being very good stewards of their respective budgets this past year.

Christ Church started the year with available cash of a little more than $24,290 and we finished the year with just over $39,000.

We begin 2010 on a positive note, our stewardship campaign was well received with many members increasing their support to the church; however we still have many challenges in achieving a balanced budget!

Thank you for support of Christ Presbyterian Church.

William R. Hylan, Treasurer

Deacons

A kindergarten teacher gave her class a "show and tell" assignment of bringing something to represent their religion.

The first boy got in front of the class and said, "My name is Benjamin and I am Jewish and this is the Star of David."

The second girl went to the front of the class and said, "My name is Mary. I'm Catholic and this is the Crucifix."

The third boy walked to the front of the class and said, "My name is Tommy and I am Presbyterian and this is a casserole."

Though casseroles may be representative of one part of the Deacons' ministry, the role of the Deacons is much more than this. Care and concern are two words that are significantly more descriptive of this position. Having been on both the giving and receiving sides of the Deacons' generosity in 2009, Linda and I are particularly aware of the important role that Deacons fill in our church.

The following is a list of the Deacon committees, the chairperson of those committees, and a brief description of what each committee does.

Care and Support/Homebound Visitation Team: Chaired by Diane Kowalski and Mari Dorn

The Care and Support Ministry Team oversees the hands-on ministry of taking care of our congregation during times of need due to illness, surgery, or a death in the family. The Homebound Visitation Team works in close contact with Care and Support, and both teams continue to seek ways to connect with those who can't attend worship in order to make them feel a part of our worship community at CPC. There are seven major subgroups and they are: Prayer teams, Flower delivery team, Home communion team, CD distribution team, Memorial reception team, Meal delivery team

New Member Support: Chaired by Ann Myles

New Member Support works with new members to make sure they get properly acclimated into their new church home.

College Student Care Team: Chaired by Mark Ruhe

The College Student Care Team seeks ways to connect to the young adults in our church who are attending college. Care packages are sent to the students several times a year to remind them that their church family is thinking about them and praying for them during this transitional time in their lives.

Transportation Team: Chaired by Roger Howell

The Transportation Team arranges transportation for those members who might require transportation to attend church, go to the doctor, or wherever else they might need to have someone take them.

Communion Team: Chaired by Connie Haberkamp

The Communion Team sets up for and cleans up from the administration of the Sacrament of Communion.

In addition to the above teams, each Deacon was assigned a neighborhood group of members to contact this past year. Telephone calls and notes were sent out reminding members of special events and seasonal changes in service times.

Also serving as Deacons in 2009: Linda Haubert, Jama Roman, Kay Moon, Ashley Hendrix, Dave Hendrix, Jennifer Barkley, Susan Lawrence, Judy Noll, Phyllis VanTassel and Dan Ferguson.

Small Groups

Our existing ten small groups or circles remained active in 2009, with approximately 6-12 participants in each group. They included groups for young adults in their 20s and 30s, moms with children, women and men who gather to study personal and faith issues, various women's circles and men's studies, and groups dedicated to serving others in various ways.

We also instituted Neighborhood Groups and sponsored two multi-week sessions. During Lent, we had a 5-week Lenten series with over 100 participants, including several not typically involved outside of worship. We discussed issues pertaining to what it means to live as a Christian: trusting, living in simplicity, extending God's love, praying, and bringing the message of Christ to others.

In the fall, we had a 4-week series that addressed the question 'what does it mean to you to be a part of this congregation?' which followed the newly adopted Church Expectations of belief, service, regular worship, study, and giving. About 60-70 people participated.

Respectfully respected, Jonathan Bossenbroek, Team Leader

Endowment Fund

The Endowment Fund, established at CPC in 1973, provides for the future of our church in the form of a stable income stream. Money in the Endowment Fund is restricted in that only a portion may be used each year toward the operating expenses of the church. Under the current rules of the fund, which have been in existence for the last ten years and are strictly applied, five percent of the average of the last three year end balances is withdrawn from the Endowment Fund and is then paid to CPC's operating expense account. The withdrawal occurs only once per year. In 2009 the withdrawal took place on April 2, 2009 when $34,818.00 was paid out of the Endowment Fund to the CPC operating expense account.

The Endowment Fund currently consists of two accounts. The securities account is with Merrill Lynch. This account is managed by Craig Findley of Findley-Wise Group. There is also a savings account with Key Bank.

It is worthwhile to understand where we are at the end of 2009 to review 2008. We began 2008 with an opening balance of $775,763 in the Merrill Lynch account, mostly invested in mutual funds. We are all aware that 2008 was the year of the financial crisis and the implosion of the stock market, which the Endowment Fund was not able to escape. In 2008 the Merrill Lynch account depreciated in the amount of $318,540, or roughly 41%. The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 34% in 2008. On October 15, 2008 the Dow Jones Industrial Average dropped 733 points (6.82%), in just one day. At the close of 2008 the Endowment Fund's Merrill Lynch account balance was $455,725. This amount is net of $36,000 withdrawn on October 10, 2008 for the Endowment Fund's annual contribution to the operating account plus $25,000 received from the Estate of Marilyn Ohr, along with another $1,000 gift to the fund.

In 2008 CPC received a very significant bequest from the Estate of Marilyn Ohr in the amount of $202,000. The Key Bank account referred to above was funded with Marilyn's bequest and others made to the church, namely a bequest from the Estate of Jack Bryan. Session, in October, 2008 determined that $149,753 from the Marilyn Ohr bequest should be deposited in the Key Bank account for the exclusive purpose of being a part of the Endowment Fund.

In late December, 2008 the Endowment Committee determined that $25,000 should be withdrawn from the Key Bank account and deposited with Merrill Lynch. This left a balance in the Key Bank account for the Endowment Fund at the close of 2008 in the amount of $137,211 which included interest paid on the account in 2008. It was the intention of the Endowment Fund Committee to make period transfers of funds from the Key Bank account to Merrill Lynch for investment purposes during the year 2009.

To summarize, at the end of 2008 the Endowment Fund had an account balance with Key Bank in the amount of $137,211 and an account balance with Merrill Lynch in the amount of $455,725, for a total of $592,936. Obviously, the Endowment Fund took a major hit in 2008 taking into account that at the beginning of 2008 the fund consisted of the Merrill Lynch account only with a balance in the amount of $775,763 and Marilyn Ohr's bequest was unknown at the time.

The performance in 2009 has been considerably better, but the market continued to drop through March 9, 2009 when the market reached its bottom and began its climb to where it currently is. Of course, our Key Bank savings was protected in an interest bearing account. At the end of January, 2009 the Merrill Lynch account balance was $423,191, down another $35,534. The excitement continued in February and the account dropped another $32,644 to $390,548. But then the climb from oblivion began and by the end of March the Merrill Lynch account balance was $428,998, including $10,000 which the Endowment Committee transferred from the Key Bank account to the Merrill Lynch account.

During the course of the year, the Endowment Committee has transferred various amounts from the Key Bank account to the Merrill Lynch account to try to take advantage of the upward trend of the stock market. On March 23, as stated, $10,000 was transferred. On April 16, $25,000 was transferred. On May 26, $25,000 was transferred. On July 20, $25,000 was transferred to Merrill Lynch. On September 15, $20,000 was transferred to Merrill Lynch, and on November 10, $8,400 was transferred to Merrill Lynch. This left a balance in the Key Bank account in the approximate amount of $25,036.

On April 2, 2009 $34,818 was withdrawn from the Merrill Lynch account for the annual contribution to the operating account. At the end of April the Merrill Lynch account balance was $458,824 net of the operating account money and including the $25,000 received from the Marilyn Ohr Key Bank deposit.

2009 has been a much better year for the stock market, as we all know, and we are slowly recouping our losses. Though the 2009 year end statement is not available at the time of this report, we can report that at the end of November, 2009 the Merrill Lynch account balance was $662,892. By December 4, 2009 the Merrill Lynch balance was $676,456, but this amount included $113,400 transferred during the year from Key Bank. We also have to take into account the $34,818 which was deducted from the account for the operating account. Adding and subtracting the various numbers, the net appreciation on the account for the year due to investments only and not including transfers from Key Bank was $138,965, or 29% through December 7, 2009.

Multiple gifts have been received for the Endowment Fund during 2009. Those persons making gifts during the year are the Estate of Marilyn Ohr, the Estate of Jack Bryan, as well as Barbara Ball, Charles and Mildred Harrison, Bob and Dale Burnett, Craig and Amy Findley, Sue Howe, and Leland Floyd. We again thank those who have generously donated to the Endowment Fund.

 Jeff Lydy, Chairman, Endowment Committee
